

Potted Plant Restrictions

We are unable to ship potted berry plants to the following states due to the Japanese Beetle Harmonization Plan. We are able to ship plants to these states bare-root only:

Alaska, California, Florida, Idaho, Nevada, Oregon (no blueberries allowed), Texas, Utah, and Washington.

These states require our potted stock to be treated with pesticides before shipping, and that we will not do. For all other states, our cultural management practices meet with the protocols set forth by the JBH Plan.

As research increases, it may in future allow untreated, potted plant shipments to the states listed above. All other states may receive shipments of potted plant stock from our nursery. All of our plants are untreated and meet the USDA organic growing standards.
